

BAD TOWN OF LONG AGO NOW REAL PEACEFUL

(By Associated Press)
OCRACOKE, N. C., Feb. 3.—Although this little town about a century and a half ago was the rendezvous of one of the world's most daring and famous gang of crooks, Edward Teach and his band, it is today a community which the recent crime wave has not reached. There has not been an arrest here in more than 10 years and the crimes of robbery, burglary, theft and murder are absolutely unknown to the population, insofar as they refer to Ocracoke.

John O'Neal, after holding office as justice of the peace for eight years, resigned a year or more ago, not having had a criminal case during his administration. A successor has never been elected. Mr. O'Neal, who was born at Ocracoke, says the worst crime he can recall to have occurred at Ocracoke in 50 years was one of assault and battery.

HUGH HENRY BROWN'S ADDRESS DELIVERED BEFORE S. F. BAR

All readers of The Bonanza will take pleasure in perusing the address delivered by Hugh Henry Brown, member of the executive committee of the American Bar association, before the Bar Association of San Francisco at a luncheon given in his honor last Monday at the Hotel St. Francis in that city. Many compliments were paid to our distinguished townsman by the brainiest men in the west, and his remarks were the cause of much favorable comment, both as regards the meat contained therein, as well as the oratorical effort. Mr. Brown's address, which was published in The Recorder of San Francisco, will be found following the introductory remarks made by Jeremiah Sullivan, president of the Bar Association of San Francisco.

President Sullivan, in introducing Hugh Henry Brown, recalled the manner in which Mr. Brown, formerly a practitioner at the San Francisco bar, had suggested to him the possibility of securing for San Francisco the 1922 convention of the American Bar association. What Mr. Brown subsequently did in that regard is a matter of immediate history, he said. Before introducing the speaker, President Sullivan read a telegram from Samuel Platt, of the Reno, Nevada, bar, and vice-president of the American Bar association for Nevada, complimenting Brown highly upon his success in securing the convention for San Francisco. The telegram follows:

"As a member of the bar of California and Nevada, and as vice-president of the American Bar association for Nevada, permit me to request you on behalf of the Nevada bar to extend our heartiest congratulations to Hugh Brown for his splendid accomplishment in bringing the next annual convention of the association to San Francisco. May we also take this opportunity of renewing our expression of esteem and our great pride in him as a man and as a worthy member of our profession."

Mr. Brown declared that it would be impossible for him to fittingly reply to the tributes paid him by President Sullivan and by his colleagues of the Nevada bar. He would confine himself, he said, to stating what might be expected of the convention. He said in part:

"The sessions of the convention will extend over four days during the second week of August. The advance guard of the American Bar association will be the national conference of commissioners of uniform state laws, made up of from three to five commissioners from each state, which will sit in San Francisco for seven days prior to the convening of the convention. At these sessions will be present such prominent men as Professor William of Harvard, Dean Wigmore of Northwestern university, Judge Terry of Colorado, Professor Bogart of Cornell, Judge Selfridge of the Maryland supreme court, men whose sole purpose in attending these sessions is to be of service to the people of the United States in perfecting and bringing about uniformly in the laws. Eugene A. Gilmore, the secretary of the conference, has only recently been appointed vice-governor general of the Philippines by President Harding.

"The most important of the achievements of the commissioners on uniform state laws has been the uniform negotiable instruments act, now the law in all but two of the states.

"At the San Francisco session the first draft of a uniform law of aviation will probably be the chief topic of discussion. There are some persons who insist that this comes under the jurisdiction of the admiralty. But if that is so and there should be 48 varieties of law of the air, think what a chaos would result.

"The first day of the work of the session is like a three-ring circus. Three or four important sections are under way at the same time discussing matters that all want to hear. For instance, at the Cincinnati convention Chief Justice Taft was addressing one section on important matters of procedural reform, while in another hall Elihu Root was discussing on international law, and Justice Pitney was speaking at yet another forum on the methods and work of the supreme court of the United States.

"The judicial section is one of the notable and active auxiliary bodies. It is made up altogether of judges and its personnel is well known to the entire bar. United States Circuit Judge Woods of the Third circuit is chairman. This section devotes itself to matters pertaining to the handling of cases in court and to suggestions for procedural reform.

"This section on legal education is most important. Two years ago the association decided that it was time to consider seriously the raising of the standards required for admission to the bar. A committee was appointed to investigate, with Elihu Root as chairman. This committee presented its report, first to the judicial section and then to the association at the Cincinnati convention last year with the result that there is to be held at Washington on February 23 and 24 next, a special session of the committee, at which delegates from all over the United States will discuss ways and means to put into effect the recommendations of the Root report.

"These sessions will be especially notable, as they will be presided over and addressed by such notable lawyers and national figures as Hon. Clarence N. Goodwin, of Chicago, chairman of the conference of bar association delegates; Chief Justice William Howard Taft of the supreme court of the United States; James W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain; Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, Elihu Root and Cordell A. Severance, president of the American Bar association.

"We will undoubtedly get the back wash of this meeting at the coming convention. It will thus be seen that great subjects will engross the attention of the convention at San Francisco.

"Judge Goodwin, chairman of the section on legal education, was especially gloomy in his opposition to holding the convention so far away from the centers of the country as San Francisco seems to be. He stated in a letter to the executive committee that the big job of the convention would be to put the Root report over to the country and that the convention should meet in the heart of the country so that the message could be gotten over. I informed the committee that the voice of San Francisco was loud enough to ramify as far and as effectively as the voice of any other city.

"The arrangements for the convention are in the hands of a special committee composed of the president, secretary and treasurer of the association. Thus far Secretary of State Hughes has been invited to deliver the annual address and Lord Shaw, an eminent English jurist and one of the law lords, will be the guest of the association and deliver an address.

"It is probable that at the San Francisco convention the American Bar association will inaugurate a campaign similar to its campaign against recall of judges, which resulted in the killing of that measure, with a program to resist current disrespect for the law and the courts and attacks upon our institutions. A committee was appointed at Tampa to consider the seasonability of action along that line.

"The chief objection to holding the convention at San Francisco was its distance from eastern centers. The invitation was so persuasive and so widespread that although invitations had been received from other states, the regional character of California's invitation became a controlling factor. I pointed out that the Pacific coast needs and wants the convention. If the committee declined the invitation on the ground that San Francisco was too far away it would be equivalent to an acknowledgment that the United States was too big for the American Bar association.

"This is Pacific year; Secretary of State Hughes himself coined the expression 'our interests in the regions of the Pacific.' What more dramatic thing could occur than for the secretary of state to deliver at San Francisco some great and pregnant message upon this situation.

"The San Francisco convention of the American Bar association will not only be a great success, but will be a landmark in the history of the association and the bar of the Pacific coast will not permit it to be anything else."

WHITMAN HOLDS CRANK RECORD OF NYE COUNTY

Jack Whitman and Frank Macy, well-known mining men, succeeded in getting back to Tonopah Thursday afternoon after a strenuous experience covering a period of three days, during which time they shovelled snow and cranked a Ford until both are lame in the arms and back. Mr. Whitman found it necessary to leave 14 days ago for Cottonwood, 129 miles from Tonopah, in the extreme eastern end of Nye county, to deliver to Mr. Macy and Pete Wynnekin, his co-partners, supplies to ride them over the cold period. He reached his destination without mishap, but on the return trip he and Mr. Macy encountered snowdrifts that blocked the road for hundreds of yards.

The showing on the New Era property is most encouraging, according to Mr. Whitman, and he and his partners expect to have the workings in condition by the coming of summer to permit of ore shipments being made. In the shaft that has a depth of 50 feet a 4-foot body of silver-lead ore is exposed in the south drift that shows values of from $70 to $215 a ton.
